A spokesman for the Memorial of the War of 1812 in New York City said,

"The Memorial of the War of 1812 in New York City is a important and compelling story of the American Revolution and the role of New York City as the jailhouse of the American Revolution. The Memorial celebrates the courage and sacrifice of those who fought for independence and the rights of all people."

The Memorial is located in the heart of New York City, near the site of the historic Battle of Harlem Heights, where American forces defeated a British force and captured General John Burgoyne. The Memorial includes a visitors center, a museum exhibit, and a series of interactive exhibits that tell the story of the American Revolution and the role of New York City.

The Memorial is open daily from 10:00 am to 5:00 pm and admission is free of charge. Visitors are encouraged to come and learn about the history of the American Revolution and the role of New York City in this important and inspiring chapter of American history.

Revolutionary War as well as a sobering commentary on how Americans have remembered our struggle for independence — and how much we have forgotten.

Records Relating to American Prisoners of War and Missing in Action from the Vietnam War An in-depth look at American POW policy and practice from the Revolutionary War to the current wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. Argues that U.S. treatment of prisoners has been improvised at best in almost every American conflict, due to a chronic failure to record and learn from practices in previous conflicts.
